

At the top of the image is reproducibility. Reconstructability and Quality are both below reproducibility and contribute to reproducibility. Contributors to reconstructability (pictured under reconstructability) include: written methods (Protocols and/or Standard operating Procedures) which includes elements of study design/Scientific quality (bottom graphic), transparent documentation, and data sharing and record retention. Contributors to quality (pictured under quality) include: key resource authentication, personnel training, and equipment maintenance and testing.